This is an eye-pointing board made for use by someone who cannot point with their hands, or someone who is lying flat, perhaps in hospital.

Cut out this rectangle before laminating board to leave clear laminate - which can also be cut out - through which you can see the user's face.

To use the board hold it at the user's eye level, with the pictures facing the user. Ask the user to look at what they want to say, and check that you have understood correctly by asking YES/NO questions.

If necessary enlarge the board on a colour-copier before laminating.
